Funding Opportunity Purpose

This funding opportunity is to support research grant(s) to advance the state of knowledge, develop novel techniques, agents, methodologies, models, or applications that could have a significant impact on drug hypersensitivity research. This funding mechanism is designed to further research in drug allergy/hypersensitivity for individuals with a current or future focus in drug hypersensitivity research. Priority will be given to junior faculty and those without current NIH funding. For the purpose of this opportunity vaccines are not considered drugs, and applications that focus on vaccine reactions will NOT be considered for this award.

Amount

This two-year award will provide for direct costs (salary, lab expenses, etc.) ranging from $50,000 - $150,000 (dispersed to the awardees institution in four equal payments). Award term is July 1, 2025 to June 30, 2027. Funds may not be used for institutional indirect costs.
